To John Moore Morse

A Last Song for Jack Morse

Cover his face! We loved him well.
He was not then as he is now—
A glamourless and faded shell,
Cold hands and lips and marble brow.

His hands—ah, they were warm and strong,
His lips—ah, they were red and pure!
His heart—it sang a merry song,
That shall endure.

We heard it in the crowded street,
We heard it in the noisy mart,
I hear it echoing, brave and sweet,
Forever in my heart.

—Hermann Hagedorn.

Ex-Officio

JOHN DOLBEARE WHITE
HATHERLY FOSTER, JR.

To the Members of the Class of 1907:—

The scope of this report is small. Its purpose is simply to record the changes of occupation and address, the marriages and births, and the deaths which have occurred in the Class since graduation,three years ago. In a work of this kind, a few inaccuracies are inevitable, for which I ask your indulgence, with the assurance that I have spared no pains to minimize them. I am very grateful for the splendid co-operation shown by the members of the Class in responding to requests for information. The fact that out of a Class as large as ours, only twelve men have not been heard from, is a record of which 1907 may well be proud.

I have ventured, after much hesitation, to dedicate the report to Jack Morse. I am fully sensible of the unworthiness of the offering, but perhaps this may serve until some more appropriate memorial can be provided, as a slight tribute on the part of the Class to the memory of a man whom we all loved and respected.

JOHN REYNOLDS, Secretary.

It will be noted that the ordinary yearly expenses, including those of the secretary and treasurer, the smokers, Commencement spread, and sundries, amount to about $360. Last year these amounted to some $213. The increase in this year's bills is due partly to work already begun on the Triennial and partly to expenses in connection with the dinner last June. It seems clear that the income from our invested funds should be at least $375 in order safely to cover merely the annual expenses of the ordinary sort. Our present income from this source is approximately $300. It is highly desirable to preserve our capital intact, and with this in view, it is much hoped that all those who find themselves able to do so will pay in their overdue accounts as soon as possible.

Lest it puzzle some members of the Class to account for the apparent increase in the size of our assets over the amount of the Fund as subscribed, it might be well to state that the Fund was materially aided by the surplus from the Class Day Committee, amounting to $4,333.98.

Respectfully submitted,

RICHARD B. GREGG, Treasurer.
